

You Promised

My Big Brother

You promised you'd play with me

You said you'd push me on the swings

You promised there were no more monsters under my bed

You told me not to be afraid

You promised you'd protect me

You told me you'd always be there

But Big Brother where did you go?

I don't want to play anymore. I just want you to come home

The monsters are coming back and I can't fight them alone

I'm afraid and I feel betrayed

You promised you'd come back so I say again Big Brother

Where did you go?
